Fund strategy and policy

Target: The fund aims to generate double-digit annual returns over three years while accepting high volatility in the short term.

Strategy: Our forecasting system continuously interprets relevant market data as we assume the dominant investor groups will do so as well to determine the expected trend. In addition to this trend, our trading system extracts the short term volatility with fully automated daily orders. For our portfolio management we allocate capital to 14 different financial markets on a risk parity basis. We do not trade single stocks. Emotions do not influence our systematic decision making.

Scope: We only trade futures in the markets covered by our research.

Management: Portfolio, risk and compliance management are provided by experienced and independent teams within Tom Capital.

Risk Mgmt. The fund has a total exposure limit of 585% of NAV and a sub-limit structure preventing risk concentration.

Conviction: Management is significantly invested in the fund.

History: This investment framework was developed by the founder in 2011/12 based on his 20 years of experience in forecasting and investing. Since then the partial models within the framework have continuously been improved by the Tom Capital team. In October 2018 the framework reached a maturity that allowed the research to shift its focus on the development of complementary forecasting models with the help of machine learning.
